3 Future generations principle

In this Act, any reference to a public body doing something “in accordance with the future generations principle” is a reference to the body acting in a manner which seeks to ensure that the needs of the present are met without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs.

4 Meaning of “public body”

- (1) For the purposes of this Act, a “public body” means—
 - (a) any body or person that carries out functions of public administration, or
 - (b) any body or person that is under the control of a body or person that has public responsibilities, exercises functions of a public nature, or provides public services, but only in respect of the exercise of functions that do not fall within the devolved powers of the Scottish Government, the Welsh Ministers or the Northern Ireland Executive.
- (2) A public body does not include either House of Parliament, or a person exercising functions in connection with proceedings in Parliament.

- (1) The Secretary of State must provide for a public consultation (to be called a “national conversation”) on a series of wellbeing goals for the United Kingdom, which includes persons the Secretary of State deems to be appropriate.

- (4) The Secretary of State must appoint a coordinating body to organise the public consultation.

- (6) The public consultation coordinating body must produce a report setting out the wellbeing goals recommended through the public consultation within one month of its conclusion. 5
- (7) The Secretary of State must lay before both Houses of Parliament the report on the wellbeing goals recommended through the public consultation, within two months of the public consultation’s conclusion.
